OUR DEDICATED TEAM

Nearly 175 people are employed by the Bridge Family Center. Youth workers, nurses, mentors, therapists, parent educators, program directors and many more are on the front lines of our work every day. A strong leadership team and engaged Board of Directors support them and steer our course. We thank our entire team for their tireless commitment to the children, adults and families in our community.

Staying the Course

This year, the Bridge is celebrating our 50th anniversary as an organization. So many things have changed in our world over the past 50 years, but many things remain the same.

In 1969, a group of courageous, compassionate, committed and bold people saw a need in the community of West Hartford and chose not to look the other way and hope that someone else would handle the situation. Instead, they stepped in, rolled up their sleeves, and opened their hearts, minds, and checkbooks to make a difference in their community.

Margaret A. Hann, Executive Director

The Bridge started as a coffee house in the basement of First Church in West Hartford, offering teenagers a safe place to hang out and discuss their problems. Soon, the Bridge learned that many of these young people experienced challenging conditions at home—they were either moving from one friend's house to another or living in a bad situation.

As legend has it, in 1978 a number of women on the Bridge Board of Directors decided that these young people needed a safe place to live until they could work things out in their lives. During that year, a group of courageous people overcame a great deal of adversity as they fought to open Junction 1019, the Bridge's first shelter for young people in West Hartford. On Christmas Eve of 1978, the Bridge opened the shelter's doors for our first residents.

Today, 50 years later, the Bridge has six residential programs with a total of 45 beds located throughout Connecticut. We have three licensed mental health clinics and serve as the Town of West Hartford's Youth Service Bureau. The Bridge responds to many needs in the West Hartford schools, including unspeakable tragedies. The Bridge Family Resource Center occupies a place of prominence in the beautiful new Charter Oak International Academy.

Our work continues because of the brave, committed and bold people who did not give up. We have always been inspired by our founders, but today, in our chaotic world, we are even more inspired by their perseverance.

Sue Hamilton, Board President

“Children and families continue to be the center of our work. We offer shelter, guidance, and acceptance. We work hard. We do not give up easily. We make it happen.”

– Margaret Hann, Executive Director

A Legacy of Building Bridges

For 50 years, the Bridge Family Center has dedicated itself to enhancing and changing the lives of those who come to us seeking care, hope and healing.

Some find their way to the Bridge through our comprehensive Counseling Centers, others through our safe shelters or dynamic Family Resource Center, and some come to know the Bridge through the varied and diverse Independent Living and Youth and Family Services programs we offer.

While there are many paths to the Bridge, and each journey is personal, the destination remains constant. We provide a time, place or means of connection or transition—in fact, this is the very definition of a bridge—for every individual we encounter. It is the principle on which we were founded five decades ago, and it continues to serve as our guiding light today.

The Bridge was born as Educational Resources, Inc. in 1969, a time of war, social unrest, and generational strife. An inspiring group of community residents, led by the Bridge’s first Executive Director Dick Jackson, began training volunteers and peer counselors to work with troubled youth. A year later, a drop-in center was opened to provide a social alternative to the drug culture and become a place where young people and adults could meet, talk, and solve problems. About 1,000 young people visited the Bridge in its first year.

Our distinction as a responsive social service agency began with a simple coffeehouse and flourished under the direction of Executive Director Ruth Freymann. After a four-year arduous effort to establish a regional shelter for teens, her vision was finally realized with the opening of Junction 1019 on Christmas

Dick Jackson, founder of the Bridge

Eve in 1978. It was immediately occupied by struggling youth, many who were homeless or runaways. Although the name has changed from Junction 1019 to the Bridge Youth Shelter to Freymann House, in honor of its founder, the basic principles of the shelter remain the same decades later. We are here for youth who have experienced significant trauma in their challenging lives. While bad circumstances have brought them to us, significant and positive changes can be made during their stay.

Today, the Bridge operates four shelters, or Short-Term Assessment and Respite (STAR) homes, in West Hartford, Southington, Wolcott and Harwinton for boys and girls aged 11-18. All the shelters are holistic in nature, serving the total child and providing or advocating for every need a child has when she or he comes to us. As one would imagine, these needs are great and include shelter, food, clothing, medical and dental care, counseling and family reconciliation support, primary education, life skills training, drug and sex education, and recreational and social activities.

“We are here for youth who have experienced significant trauma in their challenging lives.”

By the end of its first decade, the Bridge was operating a shelter, two drop-in centers and a counseling center. It was also functioning as the Youth Service Bureau for West Hartford, a role we continue to fulfill today. Through numerous and strong collaborations with the schools, police, community agencies, and town officials, we provide prevention and intervention services and are responsible for assessment, resource development, community involvement, and advocacy on behalf of children, youth and families.

Our presence in the West Hartford schools today ensures students at all grade levels have access to positive youth development programs that foster a sense of competence, usefulness and belonging. Through support groups, we help young people develop life skills and explore a variety of topics including decision-making, stress and anger management, and problem-solving. Our Teen Center, which was recently renamed “The Base,” is housed in the Elmwood Community Center and is celebrating its 20th anniversary this year. A safe, supervised, substance-free drop-in center, The Base offers a variety of activities including basketball, billiards, and monthly special events to West Hartford high schoolers.

When Selma Lobel took over as Executive Director in 1980, she brought with her a pioneering teen acting company called Looking In Theatre. This innovative troupe performed skits in area schools dramatizing real-life issues facing youth.

Wayne Starkey became the fourth Executive Director of the Bridge in 1987 and inaugurated the Independent Living Program to assist youths in State care become self-supporting and responsible adults. This program has advanced over the years and is instrumental in helping thousands of disadvantaged youths make informed, constructive decisions about their future.

Our Community Based Life Skills, Community Housing Assistance Program, and Youth in Transition programs support male and female adolescents ages 16 and older to develop a high level of self-sufficiency as they move from dependent to independent living.

Once again responding to the needs of the community, the Bridge opened the Family Resource Center (FRC) at Charter Oak Academy in 1991. Since its inception, the FRC has nurtured the development of healthy families, created connections between families and schools, and built a network of support for children from birth to age 11. It quickly earned a national reputation for excellence and has earned several awards and designations, including being selected as a "School of the 21st Century – National Demonstration Site" by the Yale Zigler Center in Child Development and Social Policy, and as one of the ten best programs in the country by Working Mother magazine.

Walking through the doors of the Family Resource Center today, one finds a warm, caring, bustling center of activity offering programs for young children, school-age children, parents, and caregivers. Days begin with PEACE Place, a before- and after-school care center for preschoolers, and continue with family literacy programs, early learning playgroups, peer support groups and after-school enrichment classes. Many evenings the FRC hosts parent education and leadership programs. While multiple languages are spoken at the Center, everyone experiences the universal feelings of support and acceptance.

Shortly after David Johnston was appointed Executive Director in 1994, the Bridge's administrative office and Counseling Center moved to Farmington Avenue, where they reside today. Johnston provided a deepening visibility of the Bridge in the community, and in 1995 the Bridge was officially renamed to the Bridge Family Center.

Under the current Executive Director, Margaret Hann, who was appointed to the position in 1998, the Bridge has experienced tremendous growth, evolving and thriving as it continues to respond to the ever-changing needs of the communities we serve. The Bridge has undergone multiple strategic planning processes that have fortified the internal structure of the organization while ensuring the strength and vitality of our programs and services.

Our counseling programs have expanded to offer a broad range of services to children, adults, couples and families in the Greater Hartford region. Recognizing that easy access to our skilled therapists is essential to productive and successful treatment, the Bridge opened Bridge East, a counseling center in Rockville, in 2011, and Bridge West, a counseling center in Avon, in 2015. Our multidisciplinary team addresses complex issues such as depression, anxiety, grief, divorce, substance abuse and self-destructive behaviors in a supportive and caring environment.

Our resiliency, strength and commitment have enabled us to touch the lives of more than 400,000 individuals since 1969. From our start as a teen drop-in center to our evolution as a multi-service family agency today, our history is rich and our roots are deep. As we reflect on what we have accomplished, it is with profound gratitude. We are grateful to the people who not only saw, but responded, to a pressing need in our community. As we look forward, it is with great optimism and confidence. Our programs and services are robust and critical. Through our relationships with the State, the towns we serve, and our philanthropic partners, we know we will continue to realize our vision of serving Every child, every family, every time.

Mary and Paul Butler

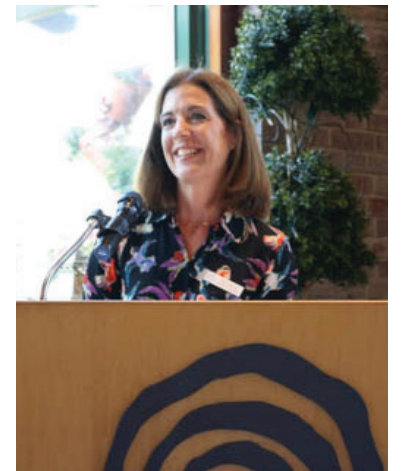

Giving of Themselves to Make a Difference

From the Bridge's beginnings 50 years ago, generous community members have contributed their "time, talent, and treasure" to fulfill our mission of helping children and families overcome life's challenges and build fulfilling lives. Mary and Paul Butler have given of themselves in countless ways to help realize our vision of serving Every family, every child, every time.

"As a parent, I had heard of the Bridge through school flyers and posters for Tune-In to Life Week," Mary relates, "but I didn't know much about what the Bridge does in the community. My neighbor Judy Bierly [retired community services director for the Bridge] asked me to put together a table for the first Ball in 2000. We had so much fun, and the next year I joined the Ball committee along with some other friends." Since then, Mary has run the Ball auction, joined the Bridge board, chaired the development committee, and served as board president.

What really deepened her involvement was attending a View of the Bridge breakfast, where staff describe what they do and its impact on kids and families. The View spurred Mary to more actively recruit new Ball committee members, because she saw how important the gala is to raising critical funds for the Bridge's work. Paul, a successful entrepreneur, has joined her in supporting the Ball as Platinum sponsors and auction donors, including their vacation homes on Cape Cod and Pinehurst, North Carolina. They also are charter members of the Bridge Leadership Circle.

Paul and Mary both have been deeply moved by the Bridge Evening at donors' homes and graciously hosted one of these events. "Hearing clients tell their stories in person is very powerful," Paul states. "When you meet people whose lives have been changed by the Bridge, you see up close the difference your support is making."

Between them, Mary and Paul have been involved with various PTO and community boards, planning committees, and nonprofit organizations over the years. "The Bridge's staff is incredibly passionate and committed," says Mary. "Margaret Hann and the board are proactive at planning to meet the evolving needs of our clients and the community." She is particularly impressed by the thoroughness, knowledge, and care put into the Bridge's strategic planning to anticipate and meet those needs.

"It's important to know that when you contribute, your donation is going to good use – and with the Bridge, you can see it," notes Paul. "The Bridge is still a bit of a hidden gem in the community," says Mary. "I'd like to encourage people to contact the Bridge, attend a View or the Ball, and learn more. Once you know the impact you can make, you'll be glad to get involved."

Please join Mary and Paul in supporting the Bridge to build a brighter future for our families and community.

The 20th Children's Charity Ball

The 20th Anniversary of our Children's Charity Ball was a tremendous success, raising over $230,000 to sustain and enhance our vital programs and services. The theme for the event was "growth", to honor how the Bridge has steadily grown as an advocate and protector of children and families over the past 50 years. Thank you to our exceptional committee, generous sponsors and amazing guests for making this possible!
